Celebrating the Power of Storytelling to Unite Communities

Enjoy an enchanting evening of bilingual performances by Seattle-based storytellers, celebrating the richness of diversity in heritage and culture.

Nora Girón-Dolce

Award-winning author, actress, singer and storyteller. Promoter of the Spanish language and Mexican culture. Constant dreamer, rainbow chaser, part-time mermaid. Member of the writers group Seattle Escribe.

Marco Cortes

His music speaks of the different Latin American cultures and is especially geared toward younger children. He currently works as Spanish and Music teacher, and he actively participates in various cultural aspects of the Northwest of the United States.

Tania Hino

Tania is a bilingual social worker, parenting educator, storyteller, a wife, and a mother of three vibrant multicultural children. When she's not teaching parents, you might find her hosting Spanish language story times at various Seattle Public Library branches.

Storytellers from the audience are welcomed to tell!
